

Questions for chapter 6, Avarice, and the False Happiness of Having More

1. What is avarice? Since inordinate desire of things is a vice, what things are competent to man in respect to external goods/things? How does this relate to the common good?
2. What are the daughters of avarice ?
3. Restlessness, one of the daughters of avarice, predisposes to unlawful ( sinful) solicitude. What is solicitude? How does it endeavor us to sin ( three ways)? How is peace related to restlessness?
4. How is society affected by avarice ? How does this relate to the virtue of truth and at a lower level to friendship?